Quick glance: Suggested itineraries

Central Europe is a wonderful region to explore, especially by car. While the public transportation system is great and you can pretty much get to the main cities easily, driving gives you the flexibility and the ability to explore as much of the region as possible.

If you love visiting small towns and offbeat destinations, driving in the Czech Republic and Austria will be very rewarding. Here’s a quick glance into some of the best road trip destinations in the area, as well as suggested itineraries for varying lengths of travel time.

Tourist map: Use this Google map to plan your trip.

Suggested 1-week itineraries:

Czech Republic only:
- Days 1-2 – stay and explore Prague
- Days 3-4 – drive to and explore Cesky Krumlov
- Days 5-7 – drive to and explore South Moravia

Austria only:
- Days 1-3 – stay and explore Vienna
- Days 4-5 – drive to and explore Hallstatt
- Days 6-7 – drive to and explore Salzburg
Best of Czech Republic and Austria:

- Days 1-2 – stay and explore Prague
- Day 3 – early morning drive to Cesky Krumlov; stay for the night
- Day 4 – leave Cesky Krumlov by noontime and drive to Hallstatt
- Day 5 – explore Hallstatt
- Days 6-7 – choose to drive to and explore either Salzburg or Vienna

Itinerary for 2 weeks (or more)

- Days 1-2 – Prague
- Day 3 – Drive from Prague to Cesky Krumlov; visit the towns along the way
- Days 4-5 – Cesky Krumlov
- Day 6 – Drive from Cesky Krumlov to Brno; visit the South Bohemian towns along the way
- Day 7 – Brno
- Days 8-9 – Mikulov and Lednice-Valtice
- Day 10-11 – Vienna
- Day 12 – Hallstatt
- Days 13-14 - Salzburg

Driving in the Czech Republic and Austria

Requirements for foreign drivers – International driving permit and your local driver’s license. In general, this is a must when driving in a foreign country. You have to get your international driving permit in the same country that issued your driver’s license, so ask your local automobile association how to get an IDP before you leave for your trip.

Rental car companies – Check for rental car rates and pick-up locations in Prague here, and for Vienna here. If you need an automatic transmission car, make sure to reserve at least a month in advance as the Europe mostly drives manual transmission cars.

Toll stickers – If you want to use the tolled motorways, you will have to purchase a toll sticker. You can get this from border posts, post offices, and petrol stations. However, note that when we did this road trip itinerary, we didn’t have to use any of the tolled motorways. Personally, the national roads that go through the towns and the countryside are just fine. Set your GPS (like Waze) to avoid tolls if you want to do the same. Read more about Czech toll stickers here.

Parking – When driving around towns, look around for designated parking spaces. Check how long you can park your car and pay the necessary fees to avoid getting towed.

Don’t drink and drive! It may be tempting to try out the country’s world-class beers and wines, but have a designated driver who won’t be drinking for the day.
